My mix. My parents taught me to be honest, work hard, work smart, and hold myself accountable. My education as an accountant, yes, a numbers guy, taught me about accuracy in presentations, and getting the job done on time. I have business, marketing, and sales systems in place, and review them to improve them as needed. My Military career, Retired Major/Army, taught me about working with others to achieve specific results, oftentimes without proper resources and under less than ideal circumstances. My immediate family taught me about unconditional love. My Real Estate career taught me about marketing, networking, systems, and focus. My volunteer opportunities taught me about the joy of giving back. My friends have taught me about being available, listening, supporting, laughing and having fun. I have incredible mentors. I love my life. This is the mix I bring to my clients.

My goals are to exceed your expectations. Call me and lets see if our goals match.

I have included some of the websites that have brought qualified buyers to my listings.
